"I am constantly on the lookout for scenes to paint that celebrate places of beauty where the viewer is invited to share serenity in nature. In a world of chaos, I paint places of calm contemplation. My scenes are all locations in New Jersey that offer little gems of beauty in our busy world."

“I am a visual artist specializing in oil and acrylic painting. I thoroughly enjoy the ease in which oil paints can be manipulated on the canvas. On the other hand, acrylics dry incredibly quickly allowing me the luxury of working almost nonstop. Recently, I have found a new respect and fondness for watercolor.”

“I'm a realist painter, who values the abstract construction of a painting. My works generally have a strong sense of structure and form, but also of space. I like the sense of space within a form and feel that I'm always playing with the 'back and forth' of the painting elements. I always paint from life; either plein air landscape, still life or figure painting.”

"I started taking photographs as a hobby many, many years ago and fell in love. I prefer scenic nature at its best and love shooting walkways, doorways, windows etc. I enjoy displaying my photos at craft shows and if I sell any that is a plus. My goal is to just have others enjoy what I see, hence the name I use at shows, "Through My Eyes.""

After the storm was taken at my home, in my yard, after a storm this past year. A stroll through the woods and Walkway to nowhere were both taken at the Cedar Run Wildlife Refuge in Medford, NJ.

"Charlotte Ryan shares her vision, spirit, and the 'fortuitous luck of timing' through photography. Occasionally her images provide an invitation to become an explorer of naturally created portals, crevices and openings. It brings to mind the philosophy of singer, writer and poet, Leonard Cohen, 'there's a crack in everything, that's how the light gets in.' She has exhibited her work in the Pitman Gallery and Art Center, Deptford Galleria, Pitman and Heggan Libraries, Neumann University, Aston, Pa. Art Space, North Cape May and currently the Mullica Hill Art Center. She has been the recipient of several Rowan at Gloucester County College Juried Art awards."

"I enjoy photography, rock painting, crafting, and nature. It's rare to find me without a camera in hand. I'm constantly in awe that we live on a planet with blue skies and pink sunsets. My hope is that I can share my appreciation of mother nature through my photography, and also that my artwork can bring happiness to others.
